

Neil MacAlpine. For nine years, Neil MacAlpine was a Knowledge Management (KM) specialist in the Government of Alberta's first knowledge management unit. He also managed information management, project management and business planning units in the Government of Alberta. He has written business cases, facilitated strategic planning sessions using knowledge cafes, peer assists and Future Backwards discussions. He writes a blog on KM \(Fast Learning\) and speaks frequently on the practice of knowledge management. He continues to mentor the Edmonton KM Network. He is available for advice, planning and support for organizations who want to become deliberate, strategic and coordinated in their know-how and information sharing.