

Stuart Lomas. Stuart founded his first Alberta technology company in 1983, and since has contributed to projects across Canada, in the US, Europe, and the Far East. A veteran of several small Alberta startups, Stuart has also worked with global companies including General Electric and Hewlett Packard. Stuart is a software developer by training, and has worked in oil and gas, new computer development, telecommunications, medical devices, banking, and industrial automation.

Stuart has a B.Sc in Computing Science and an MBA from the University of Alberta, and is currently President of Turreco Properties Inc.