

Tricia A Cisakowski, MBA. Ms. Cisakowski has over fifteen years experience in the area of technology commercialization in the life sciences. She is the Principal in the consulting firm CHRYSOROS that specializes in assisting early stage start-ups. Tricia has extensive experience managing the spectrum of technology commercialization and has worked with medical device, biotechnology, bioinformatics, nutraceutical and pharmaceutical companies. Her experience includes early-stage start-ups, strategic and business planning, securing venture and angel financing, managing manufacturing, regulatory project management, developing intellectual property strategies and licensing.

Ms. Cisakowski holds BSc (Hons) in Biochemistry and an MBA from the University of Alberta. She is also a Certified Management Consultant holding the CMC designation.

Her volunteer activities include chairing the Metro Edmonton Health Industry Association and its provincial counterpart, the Alberta Health Industry Alliance. She is also a member of Edmonton Economic Development Corporation's Biomedicine Cluster Leadership Group.